

Mervyn - Stories of welcome and exclusion

I had a room, just rented a room. We were sharing a kitchen and everything. [It was] lousy for today's standard. You just had a room and sometimes you used to punch a shilling [in the electricity meter]. When you come back, you got nothing there, people come down and use it. You had to go to Spence Street to get a shower.