

Salim - Free to be me

I moved to Leicester and it was much freer here. I could breathe because I wasn't being monitored. I started my job. I remember moving on the Friday and I started my work on the Monday and even that was just liberating because just actually moving, the air felt nicer but also it was just the people around [were so diverse].