

Finn - Where is home?

I think home is where you decide to put yourself and where your friends are. I've never lived in a monastic cell in my life and I'm not going to start now. I'm quite gregarious, I like meeting people, because I'm interested in other people and what they've got to say for themselves and what they're about. I spent most of my working life interviewing people for a living. That's just me, I'm a people-person. I've got a group of friends around here in Leicester that I've got to know in the ten years I've been here through various groups. And where I've got a group of people available and around me, that's all part of being home.
